STEM INTERNSHIP EXAMPLE

Josephine, University of Copenhagen

International and Public Law Major
London, England | Fall

Company: South West London Environment Network (SWLEN)

Environmental Protection Opportunity in South West London

SWLEN is a charity dedicated to helping people and organizations protect and enhance the environment. They work in the London Boroughs of Richmond upon Thames, Kingston upon Thames and Hounslow. The work focuses on preserving and protecting green spaces and biodiversity, promoting sustainability and community development and supporting environmental groups in achieving their goals.

Tasks

- Providing support with a crowdfunding campaign run on behalf of the community centre they are based in
- Helping review the Biodiversity Action Plan before publishing it
- Helping organize a launch event for the above

“ I arrived three weeks after the beginning of the program and was a bit scared of being left off. Carmen made me feel welcome right away. But, most importantly she was there when I was feeling down and anxious about my projects. She helped me organize myself even for undertakings that had nothing to do with Global Experiences. I have now completed them with success and it is partly due to her. I consider her as a friend and I know she will always be here for me even if the program ended.”

— Josephine, University of Copenhagen

“ Interning with GE has provided me with a lasting experience that will last me a lifetime. I interned with Medland Metropolis, an engineering firm in London. I’ve gained not only invaluable working experience with my company but also tremendous personal growth.”

— Edmond, Texas A&M University
