AIFS ALUMNI PROGRAMS

Currently less than 2% of the US college population studies abroad, so it is especially important for study abroad returnees to tell their stories. AIFS alumni can do this on campus and online through several opportunities:

- » Writing a review of your program
- » Sharing photos with us from your time abroad
- » Attending a regional returnee conference
- » Volunteering at your school's study abroad fair

For students who want to build their résumé and inspire other students to study abroad, we offer two guided professional development programs:

ALUMNI ADVOCATE PROGRAM

This program is perfect for those who want to volunteer according to their own schedule and start at any point in the year. Participants will receive resources on how to effectively communicate their stories to other students as well as how to market their time abroad in the job search.

ALUMNI AMBASSADOR PROGRAM

For students looking to expand their professional portfolio and give themselves an edge in a competitive job market, we encourage applying to be an Alumni Ambassador. Participants receive mentoring from the Alumni Team, including 1:1 résumé and LinkedIn reviews, time to complete an e-portfolio for their job search and monthly professional development seminars to assist in a successful transition from college to the professional working world. Upon successful completion of the program, each participant receives a recommendation and a $500 travel voucher.

For information visit www.aifsabroad.com/alumni

"I like the support and connections made through the Ambassador program. My network has grown exponentially because of this program and I really like that. I learned how to build a more effective resume, how to clean up my LinkedIn, and how to design a successful e-portfolio."

- Kaitlyn, Alumni Ambassador 2017-2018

"I liked being able to promote study abroad on campus and share my own experience, while also encouraging others to as well. It was fun meeting a lot of new people and talking to others about something I am very passionate about. I thought it was a really great experience in many aspects (resume, skill building, fun, creativity, connections), and I am definitely glad I applied."

- Isabel, Alumni Ambassador 2017-18
