

ADP Workforce Now® and Unum HR Connect

Changing the way benefits get done

By employing HR Connect, you can:

- Streamline plan setup, enrollment, evidence of insurability and billing
- Eliminate enrollment file feeds
- Reduce errors as a result of re-keying benefits plan information
- Transmit information in real-time – no more waiting

With ADP® and Unum as your partners, you can focus on your people and support your business objectives while reducing benefits administration tasks and resources.

When you lack integration between your benefits providers and HCM systems, your business processes can slow down due to manual data entry. Your HR and finance staff are likely spending many hours re-keying benefits plan information among multiple systems when creating new plans, forcing more strategic activities to take a back seat. Plus, it can often take up to one week for enrollment changes to reflect through an outside carrier connection. With more advanced technology available, why wait?

ADP – one of the world's most innovative, comprehensive global providers of cloud-based HCM solutions – and Unum – a leading employee benefits provider – have joined forces to help simplify your back-office processes, save time and remove obstacles by helping you sync employee data and your Unum benefits information with ADP Workforce Now. Rather than entering benefits plans twice or spending time trying to keep your employees' enrollment data updated in two systems, Unum HR Connect unlocks the automatic transfer of employee benefits and enrollment information between Unum and ADP Workforce Now – dramatically reducing the chance for errors and saving significant time and effort.
