GVI ONLINE

For over two decades, we've been known for our immersive in-person learning experiences in a range of sustainable development fields. Now we're offering a new, fully digital learning experience – GVI Online.

GVI's online programs will similarly be led by professionals specializing in their respective fields. But you'll have the option to complete the training virtually. You can also choose to combine our online program with our volunteer or intern programs abroad to enhance your online learning with practical skills and certifications.

FOUNDATIONS IN SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

The Foundations in Sustainable Development program is our flagship online program. It allows you to learn about topics in sustainable development while developing leadership skills and exploring career paths in this industry. By choosing one of our nine specialization courses, this program allows you to learn specific skills in an area of interest, such as conservation, human rights or public health.

This is the ideal foundation program to set up your path to landing your dream job in sustainable development.
