

North American Faculty

Jan Price, RN, BSN, MSA, CAISS

Jan is a retired nurse educator. She received a Bachelor of Science in nursing from the University of Rochester and a Master's in Science in Health Services Administration from Central Michigan University. She served in the US Navy Nurse Corps during the Vietnam Conflict. She taught nursing at Grant Hospital School of Nursing and developed the Level I trauma program and LifeFlight helicopter program at Grant. In 1997 she moved to Waco, Texas where she helped to establish a Level II trauma program at Hillcrest Baptist Medical Center. She has published articles and presented many papers on a wide variety of trauma topics.

She is a member of ATS, AAAM and TETRA. Jan was the first Technical Coordinator for Injury Scaling until retiring in 2015. She oversaw development of the online version of the Injury Scaling Course as well as the certification program for Abbreviated Injury Scale Specialists (CAISS).

Jan has been AIS faculty since 1998 and is enjoying semi-retirement by gardening, reading and riding her Missouri Fox Trotter, Diamond Rio, on trails around central Texas. She is married to a retired Army officer and helicopter pilot, Murray, and they have 3 children and 5 grandchildren.
