

Kolsai Lake, Kazakhstan

Title VIII Research and Language Fellowships

Conduct fully-funded research in 22 countries throughout Russia, Eastern Europe, and Eurasia.

RESEARCH SCHOLAR PROGRAM

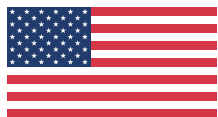

Provides full support for research in policy-relevant fields for 3 to 9 months in Russia, Eastern Europe, and Eurasia. Fellowships include round-trip international travel, housing and living stipends, visa support, medical insurance, archive access, and logistical support.

COMBINED RESEARCH & LANGUAGE TRAINING PROGRAM

Provides full support for research and individualized language instruction for 3 to 9 months in Russia, Eastern Europe, and Eurasia. Fellowships include round-trip international travel, housing and living stipends, visa support, medical insurance, archive access, logistical support, and up to 10 academic hours per week of language instruction.

BACKGROUND AND ELIGIBILITY

The U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Intelligence and Research, provides fellowship funding for U.S. scholars and students conducting research and language training in the countries of Eastern Europe and Eurasia through the Title VIII Program. These programs support and sustain American expertise on this strategic region. Grantees are encouraged to pursue U.S. Government career opportunities, internships, or short-term sabbaticals after completing their awards, and to otherwise bring their research to the service of the U.S. Government. All competitions for funding are merit-based and open to U.S. graduate students, post-doctoral scholars, and faculty. Applicants must be U.S. citizens.

APPLY BY OCTOBER 1

acResearchAbroad.org

outbound@americancouncils.org